

The hashtag '#ResilientScot20' was used by Corra Foundation, facilitators and participants in the run up to and on the day. This showcased the event to a wider audience, as well as providing useful feedback. Click here for a round-up of the conference via Twitter.

Maree Todd MSP,
Minister for Children and Young People

Talat Yaqoob,
Ideas for Equality

Ross McCulloch,
Third Sector Lab

Jude Turbyne,
Corra Foundation

For recordings of the Minister's address, the third sector panel discussion and the funders panel discussion, see our event page.

Third Sector Panel

Graeme Reekie,
The Lasting
Difference

Ghizala Avan,
Amina Muslim
Women's Resource
Centre

Eddie McConnell,
Down's Syndrome
Scotland

Cathy McCulloch,
The Children's Parliament

Funders' Panel

Katherine Sellar,
People's Postcode
Lottery

Ben Cairns,
IVAR

Stewart Macgregor,
The Roberston Trust

Neil Ritch,
The National Lottery
Community Fund

Workshops

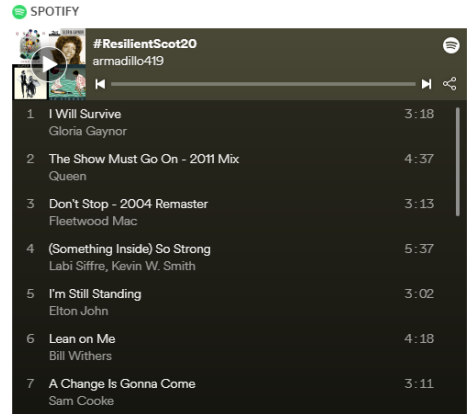

Nurturing Nature: building resilience through outdoor play
Learning through Landscapes \(Scotland\)

Not my crime, still my sentence:
experiences of families affected by imprisonment
Families Outside

Place-based working & community resilience
Corra Foundation

Building resilient relationships with funders
Evaluation Support Scotland

The Scottish Governance Code: an essential tool for building third sector resilience
Scotland's Third Sector Governance Forum

Resilience means....

132 participants from 97 funded organisations and 7 from the Scottish Government and Education Scotland. 29 contributors and Corra staff who played a role on the day.

I just wanted to say well done to you and the team for yesterday's conference!

These online events are not easy – but I thought it went really well – and I took a lot away from it!

It's always useful to be able to have a conversation with funders with others from the sector - to do a little 'holding feet to the fire'. There are few opportunities to have open conversations with funders like this and it's important they regularly hear from the sector collectively.

I was amazed how interactive the conference was given it was on Zoom, it worked well and was probably more inclusive than when you are there in person.

It was great to reconnect with colleagues and friends in the sector and most helpful in hearing how people have adapted to the current challenges both personally and organisationally.